

WHAT OUR PARENTS' SAY ABOUT POPE JOHN XXIII SCHOOL

From Parents' Perspective: "Why Pope John XXIII School

“...an inviting, community that attracts a diverse student population”

“Challenging curriculum, interesting assignments and a general atmosphere of respect.”

“...A school with busy kids! I often see acts of kindness from older student to younger ones on the parking lot. Hurrah! Hurray for the buddy program.”

“The school is an A+ model of a small caring community meant to help shape these kids as they grow. Parent involvement and support of parents by the school is extraordinary!”

“The school conveys a strong sense of Catholic mission. You help make students truly feel part of the larger school and church communities. Pope John involves parents in the educational process. You bring families together for school projects/fundraisers as a way to enhance the feeling of community.”

“You keep dedicated teachers, despite their low pay. You mix different aged children in activities together. You don’t allow mean behaviors among the children...”

“The school involves all children in school programs, not just a select or talented few. The Christmas program was an excellent display of school community involvement for them all! Bravo!!”

“The follow-up and dedication of the teacher is excellent. The teachers genuinely care about the students they teach.”

“Pope John creates a family atmosphere, communicates with parents regularly encourages a love for learning, and maintains a safe environment.”

“Peace and justice emphasis with the children is great!...offers gentle, appropriate discipline, small class size, plenty of academic time, and teaching the importance of Christ in our lives.”

“This is a cost to the expenses in our budget. However, I will do what I must to have our son stay at Pope John. There is a feeling of community and love at this school. For us we are investing in our son’s mind and spirit. In the world today, people are too self involved. Pope John is helping us as parents teach a much larger picture.”

“Excellent in every way!”
